St. Paul, Minn.—The issue which has developed at the third party convention here is so fundamental that it may wreck the efforts of the movement of the farmer, labor and communistic groups to get together in a political organization.

On the one side are the avowed communists, who, while denying that they are financed or controlled by the Moscow International, openly proclaim themselves as sympathizing with it in the same sense that the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is affiliated with the International Chamber of Commerce and European business organizations.

On the other side are individuals who used to belong to the socialist party and who want socialization of industry and many other drastic reforms, but who prefer to get it by programs and methods similar to the British Labor party.

"I am not a communist," said Duncan Macdonald, former head of the Illinois Minerals Union, "but a man wants to be one that's his business. It would be a great mistake, however."

TOKIO GETS FRIENDLY U.S.
NOTE REPLY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tokio.—The American reply to Japan's protest against exclusion of Japanese from the United States is marked by a spirit of friendliness and understanding and will be examined in the same spirit. It is authoritatively stated here today.

Decoding of the document after its cabled transmission from Washington was completed at the foreign office late today. Official comment was withheld pending a careful study of its terms.

The government has not decided on its further action regarding the exclusion issue.

Ambassador Isaburo Yoshida, the newly appointed counsellor of the embassy at Washington, will sail from Yokohama for the United States on June 21, on the steamer Empress of Australia, his destination being here. He expected that he may take up his embassy's work as chargé d'affaires during the absence of an ambassador as soon as possible.

Rules Are Like
Women

The more attractive they are the easier it is to follow them.

There is a certain rule regarding the course to be followed when one wants to rent rooms, and it is so attractive everybody in Janesville seems to follow it. Its attractiveness is measured in terms of results.

This rule says to use a Gazette classified ad to put tenants into rooms and rent in pocheekets.

J. E. Conklin, 917 McKinley street, followed it last week. The Gazette ad he used to look at his light housekeeping room, and he soon had a desirable tenant installed in the erstwhile vacated rooms.

Remember that it is a poor rule that doesn't work both ways and that this rule will work YOU'R way.

Recover Much of Mail Loot; 10 Are Held as Robbers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago.—Recovery of most of the $200,000 loot taken by bandits in a holdup last Thursday night at a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train near here, is expected today by police and postal inspectors served notice for three men, said to be members of the gang unearthing by the investigators.

Non-negotiable securities valued at $100,000, $5,000 in $5 bills and $1 registered mail pouches taken in the holdup have been recovered, and eight men, and two women are in custody. Enough evidence has been obtained to justify charging all the men with the robbery and the women with being accessories according to Chief Collins and Chief Hughes, directing the police investigation.

Large Amount Recovered.
A check up of the mail received indicated that the robbers took a package containing $500,000 in Liberty bonds, shipped from a New York bank to St. Paul. The package contained five hundred $1,000 bonds. More than $500 in Liberty bonds of smaller denominations was obtained from other packages and approximately $100,000 in currency when it was sifted through a stack of the mail and other mail bags. The $5,000 parcel of $5 bills was evidently overlooked.

Little importance was attached by federal officers to the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horton and Frank Horton, proprietors of a roadhouse near where the pouches were found.

Wounded Man Dying.
One of the suspects, found with five bullet wounds, and shot shot during the holdup, was reported dying in a hospital.

One of the women held, known as Miss Mead of Milwaukee, was identified as Mrs. Louis E. Newton, 20-year-old widow, of New London, Wis. She was taken into custody when she attempted to take $2000 from a safe deposit box rented by James Watson, one of the men held. Watson says the money was intended for payment to a gambler, interested in liquor dealers.

A hat found in the abandoned automobile has been traced to Watson, police say.

LEOPOLD MAY NOT RELY ON INSANITY
PLEA IN COURT

Chicago.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., who with Richard Loeb, awaits trial on charges of kidnapping and killing Robert Franks, 12-year-old school boy, may not rely on insanity as a defense, he is quoted as saying, in spite of efforts of attorneys examining him and Loeb to find mental defenses.

Leopold said: "I am not going to be made to appear insane," he is quoted as saying. He would not say whether he intended to repudiate the confession he made to state's attorneys resulting in his indictment.

Extensive and minute physical and psychological examinations have been made of Leopold and Loeb, millionaires, and both all agreed that they planned the kidnaping and slaying for excitement and $10,000 ransom.

On the results of the experts' tests, the defense will be based, attorneys for the boys have said.

MYERS HOTEL HAS BLAZE

Unusually constant use of the elevator in the Myers hotel for the past three days caused a short circuit in the piston return coil of the motor at 2:25 p.m. Wednesday, shorting the wires and setting fire to the insulation. The old drum of Sargent post was just as musical as ever. The new drum corps played with verve and snap.

The Veterans Drum Corps of Milwaukee, captained by E. A. Biersach, Milwaukee, was given a splendid reception.

Then Came Veterans

Two hundred members of the Grand Army marched and there were 50 too feeble to walk with their comrades but game enough to participate who were brought up in the rear in automobiles. The first five marching abreast were Commander Eaton, A. G. Dinsmore, Oshkosh, senior vice commander; Frank Fox, Milwaukee, junior vice commander; Mills, assistant adjutant general; and Tom Johnson, Milwaukee, chief of staff.

March to Town by the Grand Army veterans followed afterward.

One of the features was the Eagle post of Eau Claire, with Phil Burke, one of the three surviving members of Eagle company of the Eagle 5th regiment carrying a banner with an Eagle, the successor to Old Abe, perched on top. Sol Fuller another one of the three surviving members of the same post, perched on a platform, stepped forward and struck a bugle, clashing eyes and erect statue to the stirring music of fife and drum and stirring military band airs.

It was to the "Boys in Blue" that the tribute was paid. There were only about 250 of the Civil War veterans left in the country and they gathered to see the last one leave the earth.

Despite their age, the physical condition of course, the grand men still responded with a determined step, closing eyes and erect statue to the stirring music of fife and drum and stirring military band airs.

250 in Line.

It was to the "Boys in Blue" that the tribute was paid. There were only about 250 of the Civil War veterans left in the country and they gathered to see the last one leave the earth.

Despite their age, the physical condition of course, the grand men still responded with a determined step, closing eyes and erect statue to the stirring music of fife and drum and stirring military band airs.

Forward March! once again this sharp command brought attention to the veterans. Promptly at 2:45 the line of march started. In company formation the veterans marched down the street, marking time and waving flags to the crowd.

Their march was to the accompaniment of the Iron Brigade band.

Twenty members of the Iron

Brigade followed behind its red and yellow banner carried by two members of the St. Patricks Boy Scout troop, Justin Gokee and James Cullen.

Frank Dingle, commander of the Iron Brigade and treasurer, together with Francis Peterson, grandson of General E. S. Brage and adopted son of the Iron Brigade were at the head of the veterans.

Frank A. Walsh, Milwaukee, senior vice commander in chief of the National G. A. R. division was one of those marching.

Henry C. Eaton, Fond du Lac, the Wisconsin state flag was held by J. S. Meyers, a commander of the Lucius Fairchild post of Madison. Color bearers were L. P. Selting, Wautoma, and W. H. Rivers, Superior.

Sargent Post Cheered

Applause was profuse for the 15 members of the W. H. Sargent post of Janesville, headed by Commander L. B. T. Winslow with F. S. Winslow carrying the American flag and Eugene Felton the post colors.

Changes Noted.

But such changes in the military!

From the Civil war survivors who marched away with the single shot musket down to the World War, the breech loader of the Spanish-American to the next World War, the story had been one of a march.

The G. A. R. stopped in the line to review the parade and saw the machine guns of the last war, the destruction of gas and the Janesville Tank corps of the 32nd division. Where they endured long marches, suffered from the lack of artillery support to break the Red breastworks, saw the power of tanks, a completed motorized unit, tank trailers, tanks and even radio that told of the advances made in fighting.

Janesville and Rock county reported to this the last march of the G. A. R., a crowd of 12,000 watching the parade and ceremonies. Three bands and several drum corps were in the parade and after the review, in the city house stand, the massed bands played "Black Jack's March" and the national anthem.

Review of Parade.

The two organizations leading the most colorful and gayest were the divisions of the parade were

The Daughters of Veterans Drill Team, Tent No. 1, of Milwaukee, in their white military uniforms and caps and the drill teams of the Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans of Milwaukee, in their navy uniforms of red and white, caps and bus boy units.

OF WISCONSIN DIVISION, G. A. R.

Once more the streets of Janesville echoed to the martial music which inspired the souls of marching men back in 1861 when a full regiment went from here to the firing lines in the south. Once more veterans—they were boys then—tramped to the music of fife and drum, following the flag they had loved and whose stars they had made possible.

Legion stirred the line of march with the drums and bugles and 74 of the World War veterans were in line.

Then came the 39 place Barker band followed by patriotic boats.

Lake, G. A. R., 150 strong were led by Louise Lenhart, Milwaukee; Susan Trafford, Beloit; each carrying an American flag.

Daughters of G. A. R.

Leading the National Daughters of the G. A. R. were Rose Yates, and Rhea Hoepfl, of Milwaukee, carrying their banner. Alice Johnson, Eau Claire, was the banner girl for the organization with Charlotte Thompson, Madison and Stella Belle, Milwaukee, as escorts.

All were dressed in white. Following closely behind were Mrs. Ruby Easer, Milwaukee department commander; carrying the department banner and flanked by Geneva Johnson, Milwaukee, assistant adjutant general and Lucretia Miles, Racine, just commander in chief.

Sons of Veterans G. A. R.

The Sons of Veterans with 75 in the city in two decades. Men might have been old in years but they showed a pluckiness and buoyancy unequalled. They were dressed in white. Following closely behind were Mrs. Ruby Easer, Milwaukee department commander; carrying the department banner and flanked by Geneva Johnson, Milwaukee, assistant adjutant general and Lucretia Miles, Racine, just commander in chief.

Flags and floats, beautiful and typical of the occasion, the Legion men and Sherman's men came from home from the far west.

When men were young they marched and now as keen now as then. It was the Grand Review of Wisconsin, turning back the scroll of years by three score.

The Fire of Patriotism.

This patriotism that fanned into the glorious blaze during '61-'65 and which flared forth during the Spanish-American war and again in 1918—the fire of martial glory that paved American history—swept Janesville, the grand review of the Wisconsin division of the Sons of Veterans.

Two hundred members of the Grand Army marched and there were 50 too feeble to walk with their comrades but game enough to participate who were brought up in the rear in automobiles. The first five marching abreast were Commander Eaton, A. G. Sol Fuller another one of the three surviving members of the Iron Brigade was at his side. Tom West, the third survivor was not present. Seventeen members of the Eau Claire post were in the parade.

Lucius Fairchild post, Madison, was represented by a dozen veterans, and as was J. H. D. Crane post No. 54 of Beloit, headed by Commander H. C. Coughlin and Charles Williams, two members of the Iron Brigade and Frank Johnson, William Wheeler as flag bearer and Comrade E. D. Ross as color bearer.

Carrying the department banner at the head of the G. A. R. division was the Iron Brigade, the Iron Brigade banner carried by two members of the St. Patricks Boy Scout troop, Justin Gokee and James Cullen.

Frank Dingle, commander of the Iron Brigade and treasurer, together with Francis Peterson, grandson of General E. S. Brage and adopted son of the Iron Brigade were at the head of the veterans.

Sargent Post Cheered

Applause was profuse for the 15 members of the W. H. Sargent post of Janesville, headed by Commander L. B. T. Winslow with F. S. Winslow carrying the American flag and Eugene Felton the post colors.

Their answer to the commission was laid down in the following statement:

"Those of the highway commission who cannot wholeheartedly cooperate with me in carrying out the well-defined policies set forth before the commission know where their duty lies, and in the course of time, as the commission's work progresses, the personnel of the commission will be treated according to the orderly processes of law and not through any newspaper controversy."

Seen As Chittum.

This statement is interpreted by those close to the governor to be an attempt to discredit the commission.

OUT OF THE OLD CANTEEN

L. A. Wilcox, Cadott, is using his leisure moments in finding out interesting things about Janesville. He spent part of Monday afternoon at the city pumping station and was deeply impressed with the size and power of the city's $6,000 eight million gallon steam pump. Mr. Wilcox is a member of the George G. Gilson Post No. 188, of Cadott, a post with three members. Charles Reisch, another member, is here for the encampment, but the third one could not come on account of illness. Commander Wilcox lived in Elkhorn from 1858 to 1860, and then moved to Jackson County, settling in Elkhorn, 1860. In company with the Fourth Wisconsin, the last volunteer regiment home from service.

When the rain fell Tuesday there were only a few that scurried inside. The old boys didn't like the weather very well, but they had to stay in their hotels under awnings. They left on telling stories of the war for a while and began conjecturing on the weather.

Among the delegates are W. H. Mayhew and J. E. Fuller of Elkhorn. The former has been commander of the 1st Wisconsin for 10 years.

Mr. Mayhew was a member of the 28th Wisconsin infantry and Major of the 1st Wisconsin artillery. Mr.

Mayhew's son, Charles, is commander of the Sheboygan Falls post of the Sons of Veterans.

Jim Landerude of Landerude lake is here. He was with the 40th Wisconsin Infantry. Landerude lake is named after him.

J. J. Culbom of Kilbourn, aged 85, is the only member here of Company C, 23rd Wisconsin Infantry. During the war he was transferred to Company A of the 33rd Wisconsin Infantry, and he is the only representative here of the five members of that outfit.

E. A. Fisher, Janesville, who was a drummer during the civil war, has volunteered his services to the newly organized American Legion drum corps. After the encampment is over he will assist in whipping the drummers of the corps into shape.

With so many delegates in the afternoon of life there is one delegate who is attracting much attention at the encampment by his very youth. He is John Costello, Jr., four months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Costello, Waukesha. The boy, who is attending the convention with his mother and his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Loosy, one of the chosen delegates representing Waukesha, tell of the National Alliance Daughters of Veterans. You can't miss John in the crowd. He is wearing pink bows on his bonnet and he isn't quite as large as most of the other delegates.

"Uncle Sam" is attending the G. A. R. convention. He is James E. Ballew, of the Soldiers Home, Milwaukee, who speaks a good word for the Myers hotel management and its strawberry short cake. "Uncle Sam" during the war served with Co. K of the 12th Infantry. He is only 77 years old, not quite old enough to vote.

The government had no money with which to buy horses when the First Iowa Cavalry was organized at Dubuque and Comrade Ernest A. Klingenberg, now a resident at the Wisconsin Veteran's Home, Waupaca, had to buy his own mab and outfit along with the others in the regiment.

Boy Scouts serving the G. A. R. so well at this camp were a great help to the W. R. C. convention.

Mrs. Alvira Longbottom, Platteville, is the guest of her son, County Supt. G. T. Longbottom, while here as a speaker to the W. R. C. convention.

Mrs. Alvira is president of the Platteville corps. Her son is a member of the American Legion, and accompanied her to the last three meetings of the present gathering.

CAMP QUARTERS OPENED.

The Chamber of Commerce has been a center of attraction for Veterans and auxiliary organizations. Here are headquarters for the local committees and Oscar Nelson, manager of the Chamber has been indefatigable in his work of preparation and looking after the needs. The headquarters of the chamber quartered in the Myers hotel and the arrangements made for Veteran help, has been one of the contributing factors in making the chamber a popular place. Oscar Nelson has arrived at a place where he knows that the battle of Bull Run was not where Lee surrendered.

Army auxiliary in the state, with but one exception, was visited during the last year. The other reports showed a membership of 1,190 and more than $300 in the treasury.

D. A. R. CIVIL WAR WIFE, MOTHER OF YANK NO PACIFIST

A daughter of the Revolution, wife of the Civil war period, and service star mother of the World War, Mrs. Elizabeth Steel, age 86, believes war sometimes is necessary, and has little patience with the type of pacifist who would eliminate all reference to war from history books.

"I'd like to know what they want to do that," said Mrs. Steel, and her eyes flashed indignation. "Her husband, Nathan Steel, enlisted in the Civil War one month before their fourth child was born. He came home before starting east and the child arrived during this first visit."

"It wasn't the hard time we had to get along but the anxiety that hardest to bear," said Mrs. Steel. Her grandfather served in the Revolution and her youngest son served as a lieutenant in the World War.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN TO 185 PUPILS

OBITUARY

Delavan School Superintendent Is Speaker at Rural Graduation.

Diplomas were presented to 135 rural school graduates at the commencement exercises held in the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon. Four things are necessary to attain Twentieth Century Kingship, Supt. Walker said in his address—a trained hand, a clear mind, a large and stout heart, and a sound conscience. In attaining the first three children have great advantage over those living in the cities, but since they learn to eat their hands in hundreds of little chores which the less fortunate city children never know of, kindergartens are established with the view of creating as good a substitute as possible for natural outdoor life, he said.

FORMER CLINTON WOMAN IS WED

Clinton—The marriage of Miss Mabel G. Holenbeck to J. Leroy McCullough occurred Friday, June 14, at Des Moines, Ia.

Charles E. Taylor, state senator from Montana, who was elected permanent chairman of the convention yesterday, said he had no definite program in mind for today aside from the selection of standing committee and his formal speech as permanent chairman.

Senator Magnus Johnson had been tentatively proposed as a speaking member of the convention by William Mahoney, temporary chairman, but the initial success of the communists made his appearance before the convention doubtful. Chairman Taylor was not certain whether the Minnesota senator would be formally invited to the convention, although he "judged from newspaper reports" that the Minnesota solar would "make a hit."

Unless the public schools and colleges tend a desire and love for hard work, he said, they have failed in their purpose.

The Rev. Eldridge Charles of Portville offered the closing prayer.

tion plan. This movement is opposed by the communists, who would have a highly centralized national party.

C. A. Hathaway of St. Paul, who in the pre-convention committee helped the communists disrupt preliminary organization plans by blocking Mahoney's majority report, was named to the nominating committee by the Minnesota delegation.

Chairman Taylor was not certain whether the Minnesota senator would be formally invited to the convention, although he "judged from newspaper reports" that the Minnesota solar would "make a hit."

Planned Troubles.

The financial troubles arose from the unwillingness of St. Paul civic organizations to guarantee the $350 daily rental for the convention hall in the municipal auditorium, and the communists controlled the action of the convention. It is customary here for the St. Paul Association of Public and Business Affairs to assume this burden for national conventions. News of the possible withdrawal of the guarantees from the present convention last night reached C. E. Hugue, manager of the municipal auditorium, and he telephoned to the convention hall, Mahoney announced he was withdrawing from the hall. Mahoney announced he would be responsible for any portion of the rent not assumed by the association.

Communists halted their victory of yesterday as an indication of ability to put over their program for an immediate national party organization. They based their claim on the result of a vote which blocked an immediate selection of standing committees and forced an adjournment until Monday. This vote was taken on a division of the individual delegates irrespective of the voting strength of the various delegations under the convention call. Three hundred and fifty delegates voted on this vote, and of these 225 voted for the communists' proposal. The negative vote numbered 135. This left the attitude of 167 credited delegations undetermined.

Test Comes Today.

The real test on this question may come today when the party organization, which will represent the communists in that committee, and a vote on these would settle the question definitely.

G. A. R. WILL NEVER DIE"

Until every last veteran has left the city, the 55th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will not be over.

Until that time, Oscar N. Nelson, manager of the local chamber of commerce, urges that the people of Janesville continue to extend every hospitality to the "Boys in Blue."

"Tell the people to keep on offering their services to take the veterans around," he said, "and especially to help them to get to their trains. Hospitality does not end with the welcome. There is also a good-bye."

In a Free Country

This is a free country—very free or we would not have a convention, or is it a conference, at St. Paul, headed by men who very frankly say they want to establish the dictatorship of the proletariat, whatever that is, right here in America. There is nothing Russian about America. About the nearest we have is found on Lester street in New York among the Semites who have come here for protection from the soviet, and occasionally an invitation for called by courtesy a "Russian sable."

And all these Freudian politicians who are seeking a thrill and are very zealous in their work, want La Follette for president. They think that little old man down in Washington can wave his hand and get a new law or so, that will start the world's regeneration and save it from hell fire and brimstone. Of course he has been at it for twenty years or more, but according to the declaration of the La Follette mouthpiece, our own aged patriarch, Henry Allen Cooper, the present state of things is so close to the dogs that it has only to take a hop, skip and a jump to be in the kennel. And yet—that is what we cannot understand, but let us approach the subject from another road. Mr. Cooper, standing in the spotlight at Cleveland, said that some 95 percent of all the platform proposals made by the Wisconsin senator, had become laws. Well, if that is so, why should a man want to be all het up in a presidential chair when he can get his own platform made into laws as regular as the dinner bell rings on the farm?

And all those platforms, since 1908 when first presented, were made for the very regeneration of the Pee-pul and to get them out on Easy street. But have they arrived there? Have they got to that Beneficent Harbor of Promise notwithstanding all these platform planks have been "wreathed into laws," as Mr. Cooper says it? We pause several hours for answer.—The time now having expired we shall proceed as there is no answer. His drooping chin falls on his chest.

A heavy weight is on his breast.

If then for 16 years we have had platform planks made into laws and each time each plank represented the sine qua non in medicine to make a nation well, how may we expect this latest literary production from the laboratory of the La Follette School of Political Science, to accomplish what four others have failed to get?

Must we arrive at the conclusion that you cannot legislate prosperity or change the seemingly immutable laws of economy by passing an act of congress or amending the constitution? That is treading on dangerous ground. Forty years ago when Weaver ran for president on the Greenback party ticket, he said the same things Henry Allen Cooper said a few days ago. The farmer was suffering then. Legislative tricks and legerdemain were to make him well. It was to be as painless as it is now proposed. Other apostles, the Jeffers and Simpons and Mary Ellen Leases, rode a fitful race across the horizon, lived a day or so in glory of vision and ideal and passed into outer darkness. One passed away and another rose up. Tom Watsons, Debs' and Townes—time servers of the Greenbackers, whose political economy was expediency. Now we have the St. Paul convention, frankly a meeting to discuss methods of securing control of the government so that we may have a nation of local Lenines and militant Trotzky's. These men and women are as pitifully in earnest as the insane who pick and peck away all day at a piece of cloth to destroy it and are shocked to see what they have done when the last thread has been pulled from warp and woof. And in a few days we are to have another conference, one degree milder than the one at St. Paul, of the Conference of Progressive Political Action. Its business is again to stimulate artificial legislation. The great patient is also very patient. The United States permits all this because it is a free country. We shall have more planks in political platforms which will be as futile if written into laws as those already adopted.

The trouble seems to be that the viewpoint is wrong. Laws are highway markers pointing the way, warning, directing and prohibiting. They are not roads—only guide posts and signs. You have to furnish your own car or team, buy your own gasoline, even help build the road. And whether Mr. La Follette's planks become laws, or the republican party's planks become laws, or the democratic party's planks become laws, the user of the highway pays for it. He cannot get out of it just because it has a different name any more than calling skunk skin, "amble" will make it safe.

Anyhow, no Japanese have been arrested as mail bandits.

Measuring Brain Gyration

Medical and surgical sharp "experts" who are familiar with the convolutions of the brain of a turtle and who are ready to tell off-hand of this idea. But we give it to him gratis. Murder, arson and sudden death generally follow this abnormal condition in pediatrics. It may be bunk but for that matter so are most of these other things, and as a theory it will not be alone in that class.

WHY FARM LEGISLATION FAILED

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—A phenomenon of the session of congress which has just closed is that legislation, which was earnestly sought and which employed an active and numerous lobby, failed of passage—the farm relief laws which were urged at the opening of the session last December and were actively agitated every week of the session.

The president, in his annual message to congress, urged farm relief legislation. What he favored specifically was the Norbeck-Burke bill providing for the financing of diversified farming. That was defeated. The many other farm relief measures which were offered failed of passage, not so much through outright defeat as in case of the bill the president favored, but because of legislative bickering and delays which prevented final action.

The strongest effort for legislation made during the session was successful. That was for the soldier's bonus. Despite the fact that the president not only opposed it but vetoed it, the bill became law.

The cry for farm relief legislation has been heard since the post-war price recession of 1920-21 when the prices of farm products dropped to levels below the cost of production. It is generally conceded that the distress of the farmers has been very real. Hundreds of thousands of them have gone into bankruptcy and have been forced to abandon their farms. The difficulty in getting relief legislation through this congress was not so much that congress refused to believe relief was needed as that the members were unable to agree upon the type of relief which the government should accord.

The farmers' organizations were divided on this question. Many separate farm lobbies exist at Washington. There are the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the Farmers' National Council and several others. They could not agree among themselves upon a program of farm relief legislation.

At the hearings held by congress, representatives of these farm organizations offered divergent views. The principal split was on the McNary-Haugen bill. It was enthusiastically supported by some farmers and as enthusiastically condemned by others. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace strongly endorsed the measure and is credited with having written the principal features of it. On the other hand, the president himself was understood not to favor the measure; Secretary of Commerce Hoover was definitely opposed to its passage.

When the farmers themselves could not agree upon what they wanted and when the cabinet members charged with duties connected with the economic life of the country could not agree, it may not seem so surprising that senators and representatives in congress were unable to achieve any concert of opinion or action on farm relief.

Loyalty may be impaired easily while this rule prevails, for the human mind is supposed to be peculiarly susceptible to unpleasant suggestions. During this sway intrigue and double-dealing are supposed to be encouraged.

Judges and lawyers of all ranks will be much criticized at this time when something will happen to make legal matters the object of distrust.

There is a fairly promising direction of the study for constructive work of every sort today. Education long-lost are believed to be stimulated by this government of the stars which will encourage athletic exercises as well as the desire for amusement.

There is an easy money sign supposed to affect speculation all through this month and becoming very active the 26th, 28th and 29th.

Sleeping out of doors should be especially beneficial during the last week in this month. Life in the open should be sought by all who can manage it. For health will be the result of physical strength as the autumn advances.

From this date to the end of June marriages will be marked by intensely romantic ideals and much festivity on the part of friends. Costly wedding elements were involved.

Persons whose birthday it is have the advantage of rather an unsettled year. They should avoid speculation and beware of false friends.

Children born on this day probably will be very high-minded and ambitious. Those subjects of Gemini usually have Cancer traits and would merely alleviate it for a brief period, leaving the individual more sensitive and versatile.

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST.

FISH ARE BITING

Fish are biting down today.
How you know it to be so?
Since I've kept within the gloom
Of this busy working room?
Fish are biting in the stream.
Fish with silver scales gleam—
Past my window went a lad,
Holding high the string he had.

Fish are biting fast today.
Where the willows bend and sway,
Fleecy clouds are drifting by.
Painting pictures in the sky;
There is many a golden dream
Dancing up and down the stream.
For a youngster passed my gate
With his pole and can of bait.

Gazing through my window pane,
Head high, trudging down the lane,
Came a small boy, good to see,
Just like one who used to be.
But glimpse was all I had
Of that proud and happy lad,
Still it was enough to know
Fish are biting down below.

Fish are biting down below.
How, you ask me, do I know?
I can tell you what you'll see,
Name you every bird and tree.
Tell you where the big ones lie.
Waiting for the worms or fly—
Past my window went a lad,
Rich with joy which once I had.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1924.

According to astrology the planetary direction of this day is not important. Early in the morning Saturn is adverse, while later Jupiter and Uranus are in malefic aspect. Mars is friendly.

Under this planetary government there may be a strong tendency toward laziness which affects persons of all ages.

It is wise to delay all important decisions, especially those that may affect future activities. Political candidates and their managers may find themselves in a difficult position under which to accomplish their objects.

Loyalty may be impaired easily while this rule prevails, for the human mind is supposed to be peculiarly susceptible to unpleasant suggestions.

During this sway intrigue and double-dealing are supposed to be encouraged.

Celebration Will Be Conducted at State Fair Grounds, July 4.

MILWAUKEE.—The largest state patriotic gathering since the world war is promised by the Wisconsin department of the American Legion at Milwaukee, the 10th anniversary of the organization's incorporation, to be held at the state fair grounds and is coincident with the opening of the new half-million dollar amusement section of the fair grounds, now nearing completion.

The drums and bugles that the American Legion ordered some time ago have arrived, and the newly organized drum corps had its first practice at the American Legion room Tuesday night.

Besides a program entitled "In Americanism," Commander Vilas Wheale and his wife, Mrs. Vilas Wheale, will be present, and the Legion band will be accompanied by educational urges against racing driving.

Relatives bands from various parts of the state in concerto and a shinny battle between troop detachments will furnish features of the entertainment.

One feature will be five events in an automobile racing open to all qualified drivers in Wisconsin. Another one will be a collision between two automobiles traveling at a high rate of speed. The spectacle will be accompanied by educational urges against racing driving.

Another feature will be a competition between the city police band and the Edwards Park band, under the direction of director Eddie Hodot, Milwaukee, held the weekly rehearsal in the city park Monday night. The band has been engaged to play for the Fourth of July celebration and homecoming of Fort Atkinson this year.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Vandewater spent Sunday in Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wandschneider, who have been from the city, returned Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Antwerp, Port Atkinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Giveler, Oakfield, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gandy.

Mr. and Mrs. August Gander, Minneapolis, returned home after spending several days here. Miss Paul Ladlow accompanied them home.

WISCONSIN second—Wow, what a thrill for old Dutch! They got the Badgers even for the students of the state university and for the alumni! Absent for 10 years from the Badgers, the Cardinal went back and copped off the running position. What nuttiness that the Badgers "nearly" was a length behind. What matter that the time was slow, the boys from Wisconsin laid waste to the field, though? They had the worst position on the river, hampered by being where the current was the worst. The odds of favoritism were against them, but they stuck to their sweeps and surprised the world. Wisconsin had not even been in competition this year, so it was their first and only test.

WONDER what those folks think now that have been saying that Lake Mendota is not rough enough to give the Wisconsin crew adequate training. Perhaps to the Badgers, that the river was like a sheet of glass. Yet, there were times, he said, when crew training at Madison has been postponed three days straight because of the "kicks" in Mendota. Others say that rowing is too demanding of the strength of the oarsman. So some other sports, it is where the man is not given proper advice and where he drops off suddenly from the hard grind after school is out. Otherwise it is not harmful.

TUESDAY'S outcome was the most complete victory ever won by the east in any single sport for the last 10 years. Both first places were won by westerners, first going to Washington for the second time in a row. Pennsylvania, the east's best hope and Yale, the east's second best, were far back. Penn, it is quite certain, was the victim of over-training and probably a dash and its consideration rather than a possible winner came perhaps because of the "bulldogs' surprise win over Pennsylvania earlier in the season. The east is slow to change, is far more conservative than the middle west and is standing still while the compact west, the Pacific coast, will no doubt begin to talk about whether it might be advisable to study Washington's stroke and maybe two or three years from now they may accept part of a stroke.

Over prostrate forms of skidding Red Sox, Detroit climbed into second place in American league and is threatening supremacy of world champion Yankees. With 7-1 victory Detroit made it three straight over Boston.—After starting Cleveland to five run lead in first three innings, Yankees, led by Ruth, who clouted out 16th home run of season, pulled themselves together and won uphill victory, 7-5.—Babe brought in winning run in seventh, while a ill-fated home run was scored from second with. Foxx was throwing out Pipp at first. Pounding four White Sox pitchers with 15 hits, fast travelling Senator recorded 12-6 triumphs. Chienzo also pounded Zachary and Marberry for 13 hits but failed to punch them as effectively as opponents. Three leaders in National League—Graziano, Kelly and Gossage—had relative standing with victories.—"Long George" Kelly resumed home run space by shunning one of Sotheron's offerings for round trip in fifth. Final count was 5-3, with Cardinals on small end.—Cubs, who are rapidly earning White Sox's former name of "little wonders," produced 10 hits on four hits, completed with five. Philby won eight batters and released Ann. Fingers' not too benefits, 6-5. In spite of seventeen strike work of Roush, who hammered out double, triple and home Brooklyn made it two straight over Cincinnati with 5-1 win.—Pittsburgh partially ruined Boston's Bunker Hill day celebration by taking first game of double header, 5-2, and tying Braves twice, but in sum set encountered which home team nosed out, 1-0. Stealing a deadening play by Bigby and Carey of Pirates materially aided Pitcher Ray Kremer in opener.—Columbus delighted itself by marching up third straight victory over Kansas City, 7-6, while Louisville whacked Sabots, 2-1. Indianapolis' Manning broke even in twin hill. After which, first game, bad and losing second, 8-6, Milwaukee dropped four games to Toledo, winning one of Tuesday's pair, 8-6, first game going to Mud Hens, 8-2.

Badgers Second as Washington Wins Crew Race

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus.

WISCONSIN SHOWS GREAT SEAMANSHIP IN MORAL VICTORY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Westward the star of rowing empire takes its way.

So far as the 37th annual Poughkeepsie regatta, rowed on the Hudson Tuesday is concerned, "W" stands for Washington, Wisconsin, West and Win. The water and the climate and most of the spectators were eastern, but otherwise everything was of the west.

Perhaps to the Badgers, that the river was like a sheet of glass. Yet, there were times, he said, when crew training at Madison has been postponed three days straight because of the "kick" in Mendota. Others say that rowing is too demanding of the strength of the oarsman. Some other sports, it is where the man is not given proper advice and where he drops off suddenly from the hard grind after school is out. Otherwise it is not harmful.

Badgers Get Victory.

Although a gripping spectacle and a fast ending for praiseworthy administration, Washington's victory was no more inspiring than that of Wisconsin. For any small boy in Poughkeepsie, before the race would have predicted the Washington victory. But not even the experts dreamed that Wisconsin, a green and untried crew, would churn and grind its way to second place.

The Wisconsin triumph was reminiscent of the 1915 second place victory of the Stanford university crew team, come out of California to upset expectations of the easterners. Mrs. Phyllis Covell of England, won from the young Californian in straight sets, 6-2 and 6-4.

Complete Grading Field This Week

Work should be finished in grading on the high school athletic field this week, according to James Gagen, who is doing the work. It is levelling the field and leveling out when the work is completed, water will drain rapidly. Filling, necessary at the north end, which the city has been asked to do, will probably not be started until later in the summer. A heavy seeding of timothy and clover is being placed on the field, which should, stated, give a turf suitable for football practice and games this fall. A fair stand of grass has been obtained on the terrace on the south and east sides which should eliminate washing away.

It was a great drive and it brought the watching thousands to their feet with great cries.

"Go it Wisconsin!" shouted the Wisconsin substitutes and junior varsity, cheering on their team, giving their mighty moral support to a second place for the west. The west stuck together. In fact, Wisconsin and Washington used the same boat house.

"Dad" Vall and his jubilant men exhibited some of that vast western enthusiasm which east has heard so much about when they brought the biggest bouquet of flowers purchased to Max Luft, the Washington oarsman who is ill in Vassar hospital. He received the flowers along with the news of the western triumphs.

A WONDERFUL SHOWING
—SAYS DIRECTOR JONES

Madison—Wisconsin's showing in the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie Tuesday was heralded by Badger athletic officials as virtual victory for the local team. It was the first time the Badgers have been beaten in a race for 10 years and five new men were on the regatta team. Also the eight had been seriously handicapped in practice by unfavorable weather conditions.

"It was a wonderful showing for the team," T. E. Jones, athletic director commented.

A reception is planned for the team when it arrives back in Madison.

Gorman Crack All-Round Man

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milwaukee—Boxers of today, as rule, are not much as all-round athletes. James J. Corbett and the late John L. Sullivan were the all-round athlete men, but few boxers today can boast of any great ability in any other line aside from their own.

Tommy Gorman, 19, of Racine, is to meet Andre Balbo, South American wild man, at the Arena Gardens, Milwaukee, June 24; proceeds of which will go to the 22nd division boys for their reunion in September, is a splendid all-round athlete, being a crack baseball player, football star, golfer, tennis player and swimmer.

Besides all of that he is physical director of the Elks club at Racine, and leads the basketball team there in playing.

Gorman has been boxin so well late that his manager, Dan Callahan, has challenged him to the second fight of his career, like Jack Beattie, Floyd Johnson, Fred Fulton and Rajah Bomber. He is only 27 years of age, stands about 6 feet 2 inches, and scales 192 pounds in condition.

Azzarella Out to Lick Clein

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milwaukee—Joe Azzarella, the local Italian champion, and Joey Clein, the pride of the Polish district on the south side, will renew their acquaintance in the ring. They battled 16 rounds to a draw recently at Janesville and now they want to settle the question of supremacy between the pair. Azzarella is a husky youngster and has won his five last starts. So has Azzarella been a consistent winner. They meet at 120 pounds and the winner may get an eastern, but for the following show.
